Orphans' Home Superintendent Denies Charge of Maladministration

By The Associated Press

XENIA, O. July 25.—Gen. Davey, an estimator of conditions at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' home presented today under direction of Col. Cos. D. Light of Toledo in the face of a general denial of the charges by Hiram L. Hays, superintendent of the home.

Cantala returned yesterday from Camp Perry and insisted Col. Light in his preliminary investigation of the institution.

"I can see no violation to any of the government's charges," Hays said. "All I want personally is a fair investigation. I am not worried about the outcome."

Light said the governor had received complaints concerning the administration of the home. He said there had been complaints that some children were not admitted because of the claim the institution was overcrowded while others not entitled to admission were received as residents.

Light said the institution's funds for the current biennium were larger than for the previous two years despite the governor's budget veto which included one of $385,000 in the appropriation for the home.

Officials of the home and the American Legion presented the governor's action and said the cuts would expose the children to fire hazards in old buildings and interfere with their instruction.

er companies reported no damage. Marion insurance agencies had no reports of damage in crops or property, according to the morning paper.

Rainfall reached almost cloud burst proportions for 70 minutes at Galion last night and continued to fall steadily for more than an hour and a half. Celins in the city hall business blocks and many homes were flooded when sewers of the city backed up.

Water raised as high as three feet in the cellar of the beauty shop operated by Miss Bernadette Flannery on Hurding Way, East Galion, was bill of damage amounting to several thousand dollars during a cloudburst July Fourth.

More than 500 automobiles were stalled in the cloudburst at Canton. Within a period of one hour 22 inches of rainfall was recorded by the heaviest precipitation there in recent years, the Associated Press reported. The storm seemed to center over the exclusive northeast residential section.

A check in rural communities failed to show damage to farm crops in the storm area.

More rain was forecast today for Marion and Ohio. The U. S. weather bureau prediction gives occasional showers, cloudiness and little change in temperature as the weather for tonight and Friday.
